DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5, 7 and 10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by US 5,777,166, cited by applicant in the IDS. The reference teaches the catalytic hydrogenation (2.5 Mpa=25 bar) of adiponitrile in the presence of hexamethylenediamine, a hydroxide (NaOH or KOH), water and a freshly prepared liquid-rinsed Raney-type catalyst (Ti-doped Raney nickel) under an inert atmosphere where the catalyst is contacted with at least a part (e.g. all) of the hydroxide prior to contacting the catalyst with the amine (column 6, line 10).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1621

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 6, 9 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 5,777,166, cited above.

Applicant claims a process for the catalytic hydrogenation of a nitrile (claim 1). Dependent claims 6, 9 and 11 further define this process.

US 5,777,166 has been outlined above.

Applicant principally distinguishes over the prior art in that specific concentrations and times are taught. However it is well-settled case law that such optimization is not a patentable distinction over the prior art absent a showing of criticality. Merely selecting proportions and ranges is not a patentable distinction absent a showing of criticality. In re Becket, 33 USPQ 33 (CCPA 1937). In re Russell, 439 F2d 1228, 169 USPQ 426 (CCPA 1971); See also, In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 105 USPQ 233 (CCPA 1955).

Merely modifying process conditions such as temperature and concentration is not a patentable modification absent a showing of criticality.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 8 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
